HOME RULE CRISIS.

PRIME MINISTER'S SPEECH AT LADYBANK.

ANXIOUS FOR PEACE, BUT MUST BE PEACE WITH HONOUR.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph,"]

London, Received April 5.

Mr. Asquith made an important speech at Ladybank, and received an ovation when he strongly denied the "ridiculous legend that the Government had engineered a plot to provoke Ulster." He paid a tribute to the zeal and devotion of the officers and men of the Army and Navy and prayed that they were not going to become a political instrument. Mr. Asquith said he would, as Secretary of State for War, make a searching inquiry to see that the Army was fit for its duties, and denounced the Tory doctrine as striking at the root of discipline in the Army and of democratic government. Regarding Home Rule the Premier emphasised that settlement by consent was in the interests of the country and in the interests of both great political parties. Mr. Asquith said he was anxious for peace but it must be peace with honour for both parties.

In bright sunshine, and amid notable scenes of enthusiasm Mr. Asquith opened his election campaign in East Fife.

A meeting in the village assembly-room opened the formal business, including the adoption of the Premier as the Liberal candidate.

Mr. Asquith, his wife, and daughter were given a rousing reception.

Sir James Scott, president and welcomed Mr. Asquith as "the greatest Parliamentarian they had known." (Cheers.)

THE SPEECH.

Mr. Asquith returned thanks for his adoption as candidate, and said it was a novel experience for him to be contesting a bye-election. They lived in strange times, and in no respect were they more strange than in the way in which credulity dogged the heels of invention, and invention strove, but strove in vain, to keep pace with credulity.

A Ridiculous Legend.

In the course of the past fortnight they had had a ridiculous legend circulated that the Government had selected the moment at which they were making proposals for the settlement of the Home Rule difficulty to engineer a plot to provoke Ulster. From the same quarters it had been suggested that he took his new office of Secretary of State for War for the purpose of escaping for a fortnight the formidable ordeal of crossing swords with the Opposition. They declared also that instead of stealing away to fight in the twilight in disguise and by a devious route, he went by an ordinary route, in an ordinary way, and was met by expressions of welcome and hopes of good luck. (Cheers.) That was what they called a provocative act. (Laughter.)

The Comedy of Errors.

Finally, in the comedy of errors, the Unionists in East Fife were awaiting his speech to see if they would oppose him. Meanwhile, anxious and panic-stricken, they were to be kept on the tenterhooks of suspense. Was there ever greater political topsy-turvydom? (Laughter.) He was submitting himself to the hazard and inconveniences of an election because he had become Secretary of State for War.

Tribe to the Army.

Without going into the incidents connected with that change, he declared there had been genuine misunderstandings and honest mistakes; but in his deliberate opinion there had been nothing in any stage or in any quarter which threw the least doubt upon their integrity or honour of those immediately or directly concerned. (Cheers.) None had better reason than he to know the zeal and devotion to duty and the sense of responsibility pervading the Military, as well as the Naval, forces. The very fact that the Army rested upon a voluntary and not a mercenary basis was the best safeguard for the maintenance of the splendid and untarnished traditions of its redoubtable past. (Cheers.)

Army can be Counted on.

"I am certain," went on the right hon. gentleman, "they can be counted on, from the highest to the lowest, without exception, to undertake the duties which they may be required to discharge. The Army in this country is not, I pray, to become a political instrument. It has no place and no voice in framing our policy or in moulding our own laws. (Cheers.) It is true that the doctrine of Army Administration, was laid down by the elder William Pitt, but it is no worse for having been laid down 170 years ago."

Continuing, Mr. Asquith said it was his duty in the post which he had assumed, by searching personal enquiry and with the co-operation upon which he could count, to see that the Army was fit in the ever-shifting conditions for its primary and elementary duty. The Army would hear nothing of politics from him, and he expected, in return, to hear nothing of politics from the Army. (Cheers.)

Preserving Domestic Peace.

The responsibility for the preservation of domestic peace lay with the Magistrates and Police. Under normal conditions the Army's aid could not be, and ought not to be, invoked by the civil power. It was only in emergencies which were happily rare that any such call could be addressed to the Army, and when such an occasion arose it was the duty of the soldier, as well as it was the duty of the civilian, to comply with the demands of the civil power. These present Tory doctrines struck at the very root, not only of Army discipline, but of democratic government. (Cheers.) Where did they lead? They set a precedent which was capable of an infinite number of applications, much more disastrous in its consequences than the one which went before it. (Cheers.)

A Grammar of Anarchy.

If they were to recognise the existence of a dispensing and discriminating power they must recognise it not only in the officers but in the men, and not only in the Army, but in every body of public servants. Two years ago in that hall he described the doctrines of the Tories as furnishing a complete grammar of anarchy. (Cheers.) He related now that these new dogmas, counter-signed by the Tory leader, would be invoked whenever a spirit of lawlessness claimed to block the ordered machinery of a self-governing Society. (Cheers.)

Home Rule by Consent.

Turning to Home Rule, Mr. Asquith said the Bill, under the Parliament Act, which was not intended to be a dead letter, was far advanced on its road to the Statute-book. There was neither force nor plausibility in the theory that the electors were left in the dark regarding the Government's intention to take up Home Rule. His supposed silence on that topic was a favourite theme of the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Bonar Law). He quoted from his speech at St. Andrew's (East Fife) on the 7th December, 1910, in which he dealt exclusively with Home Rule. That and other speeches on the subject were a complete justification of the passage of the Bill under the Parliament Act.

In the Interests of the Country.

The right hon. gentleman continued: "We believed that a settlement by consent in the interests of the country and of both the great political parties. Those who believe in Home Rule do not desire to see a new system started under most unfavourable conditions, amidst clouds of darkness and civil turmoil. On the other hand, those to whom Home Rule is repugnant cannot face with equanimity the problems which the government of Ireland would present if by any misadventure the hopes and expectations of four-fifths of the Irish people were to be dashed to the ground." (Cheers.)

Temporary Exclusion Plan.

Mr. Asquith recapitulated his temporary exclusion plan, and while admitting its disadvantages said it had the great merit at least that it got rid of any question of coercion, and it gave the populations concerned the immediate arbitrament of the ballot. "I am anxious for peace," he affirmed, "but, I say this for both sides, it must be peace with honour. (Cheers.) In any settlement that is come to we must secure the placing of a Home Rule Bill on the Statute-book. We hope and think that is not incompatible with careful provision to meet the convictions and susceptibilities of the minority. I firmly believe that in time, and after experience, there will be a convergence of forces in the direction of complete Irish unity." (Loud cheers.) They must see, he continued, that the same process is applied, with necessary variations and without undue delay, to other parts of the United Kingdom, in the conviction that such reconstruction of Constitutional organisation would lead to greater efficiency in the conduct of both local and Imperial interests. The quickened patriotism of every part would stimulate the larger patriotism of the whole.

The Need for Unity.

The Prime Minister dealt briefly with other subjects of political importance—Welsh Disestablishment, Plural Voting, and Land Rating problems—and said there remained one very serious point. He emphasised that if they studied the bye-elections of the last two years they would find that, perhaps with one exception, the loss of a seat to a Liberal had been due to a split in the forces of progress. Upon the great issue of Home Rule the bye-elections pronounced with an overwhelming majority in favour of the Government policy. It was indeed a melancholy thing for those whose hearts were bound up in the future prospects of wise democratic legislation to find the democratic army split asunder in the face of the common enemy, and it was time that such a state of affairs came to an end. (Cheers.) It would surely be childish in the great issues before them, which could only be brought to success by unity and loyal co-operation, if they should allow comparatively trivial differences upon issues not vital to divide the force which, united, was irresistible. (Cheers.)

Mr. Asquith concluded by saying that he placed himself unreservedly in their hands as their candidate for the ninth time. He did not know whether they would have a contest. If they had, he should re-appear amongst them. During his absence, however, he would be able to count on the co-operation of many valued colleagues. (Loud cheering.)

UNIONIST DEMONSTRATION IN HYDE PARK.

A great Unionist demonstration was held in Hyde Park on Saturday afternoon to protest against the coercion of Ulster. Twenty-two imposing processions were present, representing seventy-six constituencies of Greater London, and there were fourteen platforms.

The processions were headed by bands, and Union Jacks and banners were carried. It was raining and a wind also prevailed.

The speakers included Sir Edward Carson, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Lord Milner, Lord Selborne, Mr. F. E. Smith, and Lord Charles Bessborough.

The Stock Exchange procession was a unique feature. Mr. A. J. Balfour, speaking from the eighth platform, said that that was the first time he had spoken in Hyde Park, and he hoped it would be the last, because, please Heaven, there would never be another such occasion arise. They were on the edge of a great national crime which, if committed, would lead to the greatest national disaster. He vehemently denounced the Liberals for flooding the country with mendacious rhetoric, and affirmed that "Ulstermen would resist coercion to the last."

There was a gigantic throng in the Park, who sang "O God, our help in ages past," and the National Anthem, after which there were speeches, and on a single call being given as a signal a resolution was put from all the platforms protesting against the use of the Army and Navy against Ulster, and demanding that Home Rule shall be submitted to the people.

The resolutions were carried amid tremendous enthusiasm, and the leaders were accorded ovations. The climax was reached when Sir Edward Carson, waving the Union Jack, called for cheers for the King; and described the scene as one of the most memorable in history. Sir Edward Carson continued to wave the flag till the majority of the demonstrators had dispersed.

A Rival Procession.

The Suffragettes arranged a rival procession, in Hyde Park, which led to a disturbance, as a result of which Mrs. Drummond and other suffragettes were arrested.

OTHER SPEECHES.

Mr. O. E. Hobhouse, M.P., speaking at Bristol, said that the Home Rule crisis had proved Mr. Asquith to be a statesman of unequalled power, and he added that discipline would be required in all ranks of the Army for the repression of disorders.

Mr. C. P. Trevelyan, M.P., speaking at Leicester, said that the officers at the Curragh were not conscious of being the instruments of military despotism; but were the catspaws of political die-hards to-day, and would become the agents of military tyranny to-morrow.

London, Received April 5.

Mr. F. D. Acland, M.P., at Enfield, said that the attempt to use the Army for political purposes had been defeated. The Government would not permit the Army to discriminate politically.

Mr. John Ward, M.P., speaking in the East End, described as Cromwellian the Premier's defeat of a conspiracy against the supremacy of the King and Parliament.

Lord Robert Cecil, M.P., in the course of a speech at Ashwell, said that the Army was not the instrument of the Government but of the Crown. Soldiers and civilians were equal before the law as regards obedience of orders.

Lieut.-Col. Sir Mark Sykes, speaking at Driffield, said that the cry of "the Army again at the People" was the greatest tragedy which had ever happened in the country.

Mr. Walter Long, M.P., presided over a meeting in London arranged with the object of establishing a League of British Covenanters.

Lord Roberts was elected president.

Sir Edward Carson, in the course of a speech, said that Ulster was unperturbed by the attempt to conquer the workers by means of the Army. There were only two courses open to the Government: the exclusion of Ulster, or bloodshed and coercion.

Lord Milner said the time was short, but it was still possible to raise a storm of protest in the country. If Home Rule was passed, the League would help Ulster to make any new system a dear one.

There were many speeches in London and the provinces on Saturday on the theme of the Army and politics.

Premier in London.

London, Received April 6.
Mr. Asquith has returned to London though the local Unionists will not decide until to-day. The general feeling at East Fife, after consideration of the Ladybank speech, is that a contest is improbable.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL.

SCOTLAND DEFEAT ENGLAND.

London, Received April 5.

England and Scotland met at Glasgow on Saturday. There was a crowd of 15,000 spectators present. The weather was dull and the turf soft.

There was a most sensational start. Scotland got away and Thompson scored for them in the first few minutes. Play became very keen and fast, and Fleming (Swindon) equalised before the interval.

Upon resuming Scotland played markedly superior football, and McMenemy and Reid both scored. Scotland won 3 goals to 1.

LIBELLING A PRINCE.

EDITORS IMPRISONED.

London, Received April 6.

Reuter's Berlin correspondent states that two editors have been sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in a fortress for libelling the Crown Prince. The libel consisted of a letter supposed to be written by a sentimental schoolgirl of high birth on the occasion of her leaving school, the reference being to the Crown Prince's farewell order to the Hussars at Danzig.

SEALING DISASTER.

London, Received April 6.

Reuter's correspondent at St. Johns reports that the Bellaventure has arrived with fifty survivors and sixty nine dead. The Newfoundland's crew aboard informed Reuter that Tuesday morning opened fair, but the barometer indicated a storm. Four ships were put out, a thousand men seeking seals. The blizzard broke at noon. One hundred and fifty of the Newfoundland's crew wandered through the blinding drifts unable to find their ship.

The blizzard raged all Wednesday but abated at night. The captain of the Bellaventure while preparing at daylight on Thursday to send out men to the icefloes to hunt seals sighted strangers approaching with ensheathed gait which betokened disaster.

Work of Rescue.

The work of rescue lasted all day. The last man saved had been fifty nine hours adrift, foodless yet unscathed, though he went blind a day after the rescue. The physicians are confident that he will recover his sight. Most of the survivors are frightfully frostbitten and in one case gangrene has set in in both feet and they will have to be amputated. Others will lose fingers, toes, ears, noses, and parts of their bodies. Two of them had their brothers die in their arms.

Dead Chopped off Ice.

Many of the dead were chopped out of the ice with axes. Several died when the rescuers were taking them to the ship. Forty-three bodies were taken off three small floes. The rescuers piled the dead in groups and planted flags above them for the steamer to collect as it would seals. Many of the dead were frightfully contorted, and many went insane, their ravings terrifying their comrades. Others battered their faces on the ice, their bodies being almost unrecognisable. One man committed suicide by jumping off an iceberg. When the survivors reached the Bellaventure, their boots and clothing had to be cut off.

Colony in Mourning.

The Colony is in mourning, and the public funeral will take place on Monday at St. Johns where business is suspended. Hope is abandoned of the Southern Cross which, it is certain, foundered off Cape Race with all aboard.

Survivors Expected to Live.

London, Received April 6.
Reuter's correspondent at St. Johns reports that while none of the survivors are expected to die, the loss of limbs from frost-bite will be terrible. Three of them will lose both hands and both feet, five will lose both feet, eight will lose one foot each, eleven will lose one hand each, or fingers, and one will lose both hands.

The Indemnity Question.
The rule stated by Sir Ernest Satow with reference to the Boxer indemnities was that "Damages are to be assessed with a view to putting Governments, Companies, Societies, or private individuals into the same position as they would have been if the anti-foreign movement of 1900 had not taken place." Obviously this could not be done without including all losses, direct and indirect, and in so far as indirect claims are excluded in the present instance, foreigners will, apparently, be in an impaired position as the result of the Revolution and have a grievance accordingly, but provided that in the payment of direct losses the interpretation of the term is not unreasonably restricted, we do not think this grievance will be a very serious one, for the simple reason that China is not England, and business is done, prices fixed, and terms arranged in the former country on lines conformable to the less settled political and social conditions prevailing there.

South China Morning Post.

The Naval Holiday Proposal.
Taking the laying down of the first Dreadnoughts as a convenient year for comparison it is claimed that England possesses 42 battle-ships and battle cruisers against Germany's 32, of which four, however, are of pre-Dreadnought design; while the tonnage, it is claimed, amounts to—England 956,850, Germany 712,930, both of which are below the proportion of 16 to 10 recently adopted. While it is to be regretted that enormous sums are diverted from the national pocket into unremunerative channels, the British taxpayer realises its necessity in order to safeguard his interests. The Government would be negligent of its duty if it did not strive to secure and maintain a fighting machine capable of upholding British prestige, position and trade, remembering always that a strong navy is the safest form of insurance and a dominant Britain the surest guarantee of peace in Europe.

A Note to the Canton Officials.
It is no part of our business to offer advice to Chinese officials, but in the interests of justice and humanity it is the duty of all to expose and condemn any unmerited harshness—particularly when there is any indication that such harshness is not receiving the reprimand it ought to receive. This statement is made as the result of reading a communication from a correspondent in Canton; and the communication refers to will be found on page six of this issue. The incidents narrated as having occurred in the Shun Tak district of Kwangtung are a disgrace to the Canton officials and trebly so to the ruffians who perpetrated it. Not only will this feeling of repugnance and contempt be felt by foreigners but it will be shared by all classes of the Chinese themselves. The authorities have prohibited the publication of the atrocity in the Canton papers, but they cannot prohibit them from reproducing it and this article from the China Mail, and we invite the native newspapers to do so.

SERVICES AT RUGGER.

Army, 26 points; Navy, 14 points;
By Major Philip Trevor.

It was a great game which the King saw at the Queen's Club on March 7th, and it was a great victory which the Army secured. On the morning of the game the statement was made in The Daily Telegraph that never before had the soldiers gone into the field in this annual match with so good a chance of winning. Indeed, the view was taken that upon the two famous Naval backs, Oakeley and Davies, the chance of a sailor victory mainly depended. All the afternoon these two men played very finely indeed, but even their splendid play could not turn defeat into a victory. Not only comrades in front, but also comrades in rear, failed them; and, though neither of them ever gave in or even lost his form, they could not prevent the magnificent rushes of the soldier forwards telling a practical—indeed, an inevitable—tale.

One has no need to complain that Davies was inclined to over-individualise. It may seem the very irony of fate to turn round now and accuse him of the other thing. He was magnificent on Saturday last, and his selfishness was what someone called pathetically quixotic. Again and again did he put his three-quarter line in action—for it should be stated that although well beaten in the loose the sailor forwards often got the ball in the tight scrummage and heeled well—but to no purpose. The players in the centre of that line were not quick in getting away, they did not run straight enough, and they were careful enough not to draw their immediate opponents ere parting with the ball. There was a time in the match—perhaps its most exciting period—when the Navy rallied and reduced the Army lead to one of 7 points. Then it was that one heard Naval spectators say, "Davies must go on his own; it is our only chance." The famous half-back did make one such attempt, and it narrowly failed of success. Through the soldier defence he steered, but just when a try seemed a probability the hand of a forward clutched his ankle. Davies made a great effort to recover, but he staggered and fell.

Physical Superiority.

Well beaten as the sailors were, especially the pack, for Oakeley and Davies the match was a distinct success. It would be almost impossible to overpraise the fine work of the winning forwards. At times they reminded one of the best of Irish packs, yet it is but fair to them to say that they were never inclined to kick too hard, and that their control of the ball in their dribbling rushes was extremely accurate. Let it be conceded at once that they owed much to physical superiority. A very big lot of men they were, and not one of them failed to make the most of his height and strength and weight. They were adaptable, too.

Of the six tries in the winning score four were gained by forwards. Two of these were the outcome of splendid rushing near the Naval goal line, while in the other two there was a kind of Pillman-like readiness in the work of the try-getter. Once Huggan, the right wing three-quarter back (who by the way was one of the big successes of the match and scored two tries), crossed-kicked when hampered in by the touch-line. MacLennan, taking in the situation at a glance, dashed up, caught the ball with the left arm when going at full pace, and crashed through the defence over the goal-line. On another occasion Usher, who had previously got a try for his side, suddenly appeared from no one knew where in the very nick of time. There was a very smart movement neatly inaugurated by Gardner, and cleverly developed by Scobie, which ended in the dangerous Huggan going full tilt for the line. He was confronted by Russell, the Naval full back, whose defence was invariably sound. Then it was that Usher came on the scene, and finished the movement behind the goal posts. The other soldier try, which, as has been stated, was the outcome of a forward rush, was obtained by the sturdy Scotch International Gowland.

Four Easy Place Kicks.

Four of the six tries in the winning score were got in reasonably easy positions, and H. C. Harrison made no mistake about the place-kicks. The Navy, who by the way were led at half time by 18 points to 3, were as a matter of fact the first to score, and they got in all four tries. To the losers must be given the credit of producing the gem of afternoon; for their fourth and last try, gained by their right-wing three-quarter back Peet, well deserved the enthusiastic cheering which greeted it. All six backs had a hand in the good work, but it was anything but stereotyped passing that was then seen. Somewhere about half-way came a check, but the difficulty raised was surmounted by a neat return pass, and away went the Naval back division again in the original direction of left to right.

As fifteen minutes then remained for play, one began to think that, if the Navy backs could do that sort of thing, there was just a chance that at the eleventh hour the sailors would pull the match out of the fire. Possibly that idea also occurred to the soldier forwards. At any rate, soon afterwards they instituted an irresistible rush, which was followed by the movement leading up to Usher's second try.

Oakeley opened the naval score by gathering the ball cleverly when the Army full back (much harried at the moment) had failed to find touch. The next sailor try-getter was Wodehouse, who scored something after the fashion in which MacLennan had previously scored for the Army. It was a very welcome reappearance in the first-class football field that last year's England captain made, and it was fairly obvious that his cruise in the Mediterranean has not robbed him of his form. The other naval try was gained by Simson, after a neat, though short, bout of passing. Only one of the sailor tries was obtained in an easy position, and that one was converted by A. L. Harrison.

A Brilliant Game.

It certainly was a great game, and not only its brilliancy, but also its accuracy, came as a welcome surprise. It had poured with rain all the morning, and more rain fell during the match. Considering the difficulty of the conditions thus created, there was exceptionally little fumbling. It is practically impossible to make a list of the Army forwards in order of merit. Not a man in that pack played for his own hand (or his own feet), and the strange spectator who had been told that they were technically a scratch lot might have been pardoned his disbelief. Gardner was very good at stand-off half-back, and seldom if ever, has Scobie played a better game in the centre of the three-quarter line. Huggan probably would be the first to admit how much he owed to his partner's clever manoeuvres and neat passing. Mr. Potter-Irwin was the referee, and he is just the man to referee this kind of match. He knew quite well that he need not have a detective's eye for the dark deed, and he showed some judgment in taking the generous view. Unintentional irregularities, such as off-side play, knocking-on &c., no doubt there were. With very keen forward play there always will be those kinds of technical irregularity, but never from first to last was there a suggestion that any one of the thirty players was inclined or ever tempted to do the sort of thing which may be seen at times in some big games. Forty points in all were scored, and thus a record for the match was established; yet the tackling of both teams was superb and the saving fearless. Fearless as it was, no one was hurt, and so, doubtless, a certain remark made by a spectator was fully justified. "It seems," he said, "that when a man is on the ground it is not absolutely necessary to kick him on the head."

The crowd was large: yet it was in its way a special one. Never once was a shout of disapproval heard, and the grown men (and women) who watched this very interesting match were as enthusiastic as schoolboys.

"Red Week."

Red bills with the inscription "Remember the Red Week," were during a recent night posted on houses at street corners, and on trees in Berlin and the suburbs, by the Social-Democratic party. Police on patrol arrested about 50 persons who were posting the bills. The Kaiser Friedrich Memorial on the Luisen Platz, Charlottenburg, was besmeared in six places, and red stamps had been used on the base, with the words "Red Week." The inscriptions were removed with considerable difficulty. The Police President of Charlottenburg has offered a reward of $50 for the discovery of the perpetrators.

Dublin Riot Sequel.

Captain White, D.S.O., was charged at Dublin on March 14 with attacking a mail-car driver and a police inspector. The charges arose out of the disturbance which occurred during a procession of the unemployed to the Dublin Mansion House. Captain White was the leader of the procession. Captain White, it was said, struck Inspector Purcell in the mouth and a sergeant on the face. After being arrested he became violent and called on the crowd to rescue him. The captain, who sat beside Professor Houston, his surety, had his head and left wrist bandaged. Owing to his injuries a remand was granted, and bail allowed.

From Antarctic To Asylum.

Mr. Sydney Jeffreys, the wireless telegraph operator who recently returned with Dr. Mawson from the Antarctic, has been sent to Arrarat Asylum, Melbourne, having been found wandering in the bush near Stawill. He had been without food for six days. Mr. Jeffreys showed signs of derangement while in the Antarctic, and was relieved of his duties. After medical treatment he was believed to be cured.

HONGKONG, MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1914.

THE SEALING DISASTER.

Only two stories within the past two years—that of the Titanic disaster and that of the Scott Expedition—equal, in poignant human interest, that which appears to-day regarding the sealing disaster.

The earlier wires had prepared us for a thrilling story, but not for anything quite so terrible as that which is given in our cable columns to-day. Somehow the statement that all hope is abandoned of the Southern Cross, pitiful as it is, does not touch the heart as do these short and graphic sentences, cabled by Reuter, which tell of the sufferings endured by the survivors. These touch the imagination and give the story something of an epic quality which very nearly raises it to a level with that of the late Captain Scott. There is the same terrible fight with a blizzard and frostbite and want of food. The chief difference is that the sealers had at least some hope of reaching help; the men who had found the South Pole had none.

Most of the survivors, we are told, are frightfully frostbitten and in one case gangrene has set in in both feet which will have to be amputated. Others will lose fingers and toes, ears, noses, and other parts of their bodies. Two of the survivors had brothers die in their arms. Dead men had to be chopped off of the ice with axes, and several died while they were being taken to the Bala-venture and after they had reached safety. That is the most terribly sad thought of all; that men should battle bravely with Nature in one of her wildest moods, win through to help, and then be killed by the same force. It is a terrible thing, but it is a fact. The men who were killed, should have no strength left to make a final effort towards recovery. Imagination is insufficient to a full realization of the magnitude of the sufferings which forced men to batter their faces on the ice in sheer insanity or to commit suicide by jumping off an iceberg. "Many of the dead were frightfully contorted and many went insane, terrifying their comrades by their ravings." We may shudder at the picture thus presented, but we cannot fully realize what the sufferings of these men must have been.

Here is another lesson that man, when it comes to a struggle with Nature, is but a puny thing after all. Every big shipping disaster and every mining disaster, proves this fact anew. Science may minimize, and has greatly minimized, the risk attending disasters, and has more fittingly equipped man to fight Nature when she is in her most savage mood; but science can never achieve the impossible and entirely remove the terrible risks to men who engage in hazardous occupations. All that can be done now is to help the dependants of these heroes in humble life who have given their lives, not in the great cause of the advancement of human knowledge, as was the case in the Scott disaster, but merely in order that they should win a bare living by the provision of one of the necessities of life. If the public imagination is not stirred to the bottom by this tale of suffering, and if, as a consequence, money is not quickly forthcoming to ease, so far as is possible, the agony felt by the dependants of the dead men, it will be a matter for surprise. But no fear may be felt on that score. The great heart of the public is ever sound.

A New Danger.

Another new danger to the children of Kowloon residents has arisen since a mink has been opened on that side of the water, and that is in the envying of Nathan Road into a race track over which galloping ponies are driven, to the fullest extent by incompetent and inexperienced riders. One youth is not likely to forget his ride for some time, since, owing to his faulty control of his mount, he collided with a tree guard, and has Providence to thank that the part he came in contact with was wood and not iron. A mink with equipages in Kowloon is a distinct advantage to the public generally, and it is up to those who look after the public welfare to see that it is not abused.

Macao's Governor.

It is stated in Macao that the Governor is to leave for Hong Kong this afternoon by the Taishan. Rumour in Macao has it that the Governor has twice before been asked to return to Lisbon but that he has on each occasion submitted a sufficient reason for staying on. This time, apparently, the order is peremptory. It is difficult in Macao, where rumours cross each other with astonishing effects, to get at the truth of such a change as this, but the stories that are floating around are amusing. We were told yesterday that the Governor was very averse from leaving; also that he was glad to go; that he was a popular favourite in the Colony, and that he was the opposite. This means that no one knows what is what. One European, who has been quite a long time in Macao made a remark which is worth quoting. "No one knows anything about why he is leaving, but in many ways it is a pity. He was an enemy of squeeze which is rampant here."

A Muzzled Press.

The Press Law which has just been promulgated in Peking is given in our special cables on page 5 of this issue. It gives the government as much control over the press as there is any need for and a bit over. The censorship clause has been eliminated, it is true, but the new law is to keep newspapers well within bounds all the same. False charges against the government, attacks on the form of government, and the sale of foreign papers containing similar items are prohibited. "False charges" is a very indefinite term and may be interpreted as meaning anything, especially since the government is the interpreter. Similarly, attacks on the form of government may include the very mildest of criticism. Quite evidently it will not pay in China to be "agita the government," and the newspapers which follow that course are in for a very rough time.

BLAKE SHIELD.

Keen Competition and a Narrow Victory

The competition for the Blake Shield was held yesterday morning when the Hongkong Volunteer Corps entered teams. Ten rounds for each team were fired, eight of the shots to count. A keen competition resulted in a win for the Howitzer section by the narrow margin of six points from the Ten pounder section, the scores for the first and second being: Howitzer section 658, and the Ten pounder Section 652. The last named looked like winning until it came to the five hundred yards range where they dropped no fewer than twenty-one points.

Coffin Drowned.

A report has been made to the police that on the night of April 4 a nightsoil cooler, aged about thirty-eight years, while carrying a load on to one of the sanitary barges slipped and fell into the harbour. The man was drowned and the body has not yet been recovered.

Hawker Injured.

Cheng Fat, a Chinese hawker aged about sixty years, has been sent to the Government Hospital suffering from injuries said to have been caused by his being knocked down and trampled on by a mule ridden by an Indian of the 24 Hazara Mountain Battery in the Kowloon City Road.

Mr. Ho Tung's Health.

New Beacon.

A new beacon is to be established in the Whampoa anchorage marking the end of the spit which extends to the S.E. of Pedder Island. The beacon will be painted red and at night will carry a light of the same colour. Canton vessels proceeding by the front reach should pass the mark on the starboard side.

Visitor Fined.

At the Police Court, this morning, a Chinese who had landed from America on the Mongolia, was sufficiently indiscreet to imagine he could get a revolver and 200 rounds of ammunition into the Colony by concealing them in a false sided box, and was fined $500 by Mr. Hazeland. Sergeant Pinnett effected the arrest.

A Cute Youngster.

The news vendors would appear to be taking steps of their own to avoid arrest by the police for breaches of the law regarding licences. On Saturday morning at about 10.30 o'clock P.C. Edwards had occasion to remonstrate with a newsboy, aged about sixteen years, who was molesting passers-by near the Hongkong Hotel, by offering his papers for sale. The lad to avoid arrest threw his slipper in the constable's face, and making use of the initial advantage gained, made off and so escaped arrest.

COMPANY MEETING.

Hongkong Ice Company, Limited.

The annual meeting of the shareholders in the Hongkong Ice Company, Limited, was held this upon at the offices of the General Managers, Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Co., Ltd., the hon. Mr. D. Landale presiding. There were also present Mr. G. K. Maxton, manager, Messrs. R. E. MacDoyall, C. O. F. Cunningham, J. O. Taylor, A. Murdoch, L. Cheung-shui, Ho Fook, L. N. Lee, A. Ruzel, A. Rodger, shareholders and B. D. F. Beith, secretary.

The chairman:—Gentlemen, as it is past the hour for which this meeting has been called and as there is a quorum present I will ask the secretary to read the notice convening the meeting.

The secretary read the notice convening the meeting and also the auditor's report.

The chairman said:—

Gentlemen—The report and accounts, having been in your possession for some time, I will, with your permission, take them as read. Our sales of ice for the past year show an increase of 723 tons as compared with 1912, but at rates which only returned as a small profit owing to the competition prevalent. Our income for sales of ice and cold storage charges—which continues to give a satisfactory return—shows an increase of about $1,800, but during the year under review additional expenses had to be met consequent upon your manager's home leave—from February to November—and the cost of a substitute during his absence. The competition referred to by your chairman last year has continued throughout the year but I am glad to say that an agreement has now been arrived at, between your general managers and the present owners of the Oriental Brewery Co. for an amalgamation of their ice making business which will be placed before you at an early date for confirmation.

With this in view, your general managers recommend the payment of a final dividend of $7 per share and that the sum of only $2,358.12 be carried forward to new account your property and machinery is all in good order. The Ice House Street property has been fully let during the past twelve months. The working of the new plant has given satisfactory results. The two steam wagons for the transportation of ice from our works to the town offices were much used during the summer months. It is found more economical to carry out this work with the aid of a cart and coolies during the cool season, when the demand for ice is considerably less.

After the adoption of the report and accounts has been proposed and seconded, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions which shareholders may wish to put.

The chairman:—I now beg to propose that the report and accounts as proposed be adopted. Mr. L. N. Lee:—I shall have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report and accounts.

The chairman:—Proposed by myself and seconded by Mr. Lee that the report and accounts be adopted. The matter is now before the meeting for discussion. No shareholder has any remarks to make and I will now put the resolution to the meeting. Those in favour please signify in the usual manner—those against—carried unanimously. The next business is the re-election of the auditor.

Mr. A. Rodger proposed the re-election of Mr. A. R. Lowe as auditor for the ensuing year. Mr. Ho Fook:—I beg to second that.

The Chairman:—Proposed by Mr. Rodger and seconded by Mr. Fook that Mr. A. R. Lowe be re-elected auditor. Those in favour please signify in the usual way—against—carried unanimously. That is all the business, gentlemen. Thank you for your attendance. Dividend warrants will be ready to-morrow.

THE DOG SHOW.

Meeting at the Astor House on Thursday.

Ever since the very successful initiation of a local Dog Show in March of last year, dog lovers and fanciers in the Colony have been looking forward to his year's show with great keenness and expectation. Naturally, since the impetus was given by that show to the kenneling of good dogs, the mongrel has been displaced in many kennels by other canine species of more ambitious breed, with the prospect of securing an award at the local trials.

A meeting has been arranged to take place at the Astor House on Thursday evening next at 8-15, for the purpose of selecting officers and a committee for the management of the forthcoming show, and to those interested in the undertaking there is a cordial invitation to attend. At this meeting the date of the show will be fixed.

THE HONGKONG TELEGRAPH. EXTRA

HONGKONG, MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1914.

THE TIGER.

Reported Appearance of Two Animals Above Aberdeen. (K.)

The appearance of a tiger on the Peak and in that district not having been reported for the about a week past interest in the mysterious animal somewhat dropped, only to be revived by a tale of the animal having been seen on the forestry road above Aberdeen. On Saturday, Commander and Mrs. Basil Taylor and Mr. P. S. Dixon were out walking on this road, being followed by Mrs. Taylor's chair and coolies, when suddenly the coolies raised a cry of having seen tigers. Commander Taylor saw nothing of the animals, but the men explained to him that from where they were they had seen two tigers, one standing and the other lying down, at a spot about forty yards from the path in the scrub in a line with the three Europeans.

According to the coolies, when the tigers became aware of the proximity of humans they moved and the one that was standing made off slowly into the undergrowth followed just as calmly by the second. By the time Commander Basil Taylor could elicit what had happened there was nothing to be seen but a movement of the bushes through which the animals were claimed to have gone, while added to this was the fact that a partridge was apparently put up by something in the undergrowth. Though the tiger was not seen by the Europeans there could be little doubt that the coolies had seen something which frightened them badly.

The coolies described the tigers as large—one being bigger than the other. The estimated lengths of their bodies were about six or seven feet and they were uniformly yellow with long tails. It will be remembered that other reports of the tiger having been seen have been associated with this neighbourhood, both this year and last.

GIRLS ON THE FILM.

Mock Suffragettes in Downing Street.

An American cinematograph firm endeavoured one morning last month to "reconstitute" a Suffragette disturbance on Mr. Asquith's doorstep, but the attempt was balked by the police. About a dozen girls drove up to Downing-street, accompanied by a motor-car containing several cinematograph operators. In reply to questions they stated that they proposed to enact a raid on No. 10. The police, however, demanded that the assent of the First Commissioner of Works and of the Prime Minister should first be obtained. The visitors thereupon left Downing-street, but secured a film of Whitehall for purposes of local colour in the completed picture.

PREMIER'S LADYBANK SPEECH.

DIVERGENT UNIONIST VIEWS.

London, Received April 6.
Unionist opinions over the Ladybank speech of Mr. Asquith are most divergent. While the Daily Telegraph interprets it as adding the whole weight of the Premier's authority to the anti-army agitation, the Morning Post states it is clear that Mr. Asquith will have nothing to do with the anti-army campaign. Meanwhile the headlines "Army versus People" have disappeared from the Liberal organs which while ceasing attacks on the army itself is concentrating on the alleged unsuccessful Union conspiracy to seduce it.

VOLUNTEER INSPECTION.

Smart Turn out on Saturday.

There was a good attendance on Saturday evening on the Murray Barracks Parade ground when Mr. E. Major General Kelly carried out the annual inspection of the Hongkong Volunteers, H. E. the Governor was also present. Previous to the inspection a strong body of the Volunteers and the Volunteer Reserves gathered at the Volunteer Headquarters and for about an hour underwent various drills. At about 6 p.m. the whole body under Lt. Col. Chapman in command of the volunteers and Mr. L. G. Bird, in charge of the Reserves, marched from the Headquarters to the Parade Ground below St. John's Cathedral where they awaited the advent of His Excellency, Major General Kelly, who was greeted with the general salute.

The men were inspected and from the Volunteers flag at the saluting base, His Excellency watched the men perform their various manoeuvres ending up with the march past. Unlike previous years there was no hand to help matters and to keep time to in marching, and the performance of both bodies of men was all the more to be commended. The Reserves in particular were warmly applauded for their smart appearance and the excellent line they kept as they passed the saluting base.

His Excellency at the conclusion, briefly addressed the troops, expressing his pleasure with the turn out generally and with the steadiness exhibited on parade. The manner of the men's turn out during the manoeuvres was also a matter on which His Excellency commended them.

THE CHINA SOCIETY.

The Art of Preparing Silk.

At the monthly meeting of the China Society at the Carlton Hall, Westminster, on the 5th. ult., a paper on "Silk" was read by Mr. Stanley W. Littlejohn, of the British Museum. Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge presided. In the course of his lecture, which was illustrated with lantern slides, Mr. Littlejohn said:—

One of the most important of animal products has been found in China and India from time immemorial. By the written records of the country we are told that the art of converting the labours of the silkworm to their advantage was practised amongst the Chinese about 2700 B.C. To the Consort of Huang-ti, Hailing Shih, a daughter of Tei-tsu, who was a feudal chief, is attributed the honour of being the first to consider the possibility of making use of the cocoons, and fashioning from its filaments a silken cloth. In very ancient times the Emperor and his Princes had a public mulberry garden and silkworm establishment; but, apart from its commercial importance, a further value was set on the art of preparing silk, for it was considered to be the art that was best fitted to promote the morality of the people. For centuries the Chinese jealously guarded the secret of the art, and prevented it even spreading to Korea; but, according to a Chinese authority, weaving was introduced into that peninsula in the twelfth century B.C., and very rapidly spread through the whole of that region. The emigrations of the worm appear to have chiefly consisted of those known as mulberry feeders, and, this being so, may account for the fact, that the great Tibetan tableland has apparently never been the seat of silk manufacture, probably because the climate is unsuitable for the growth of the mulberry, and, again, as only the animal-worm in the egg stage could endure the tedious journey through this inhospitable country.

In the year 419 A.D. the worm was introduced into Korea. The Buddhist Pilgrim, called Hsuan Tsang, describes how a woman baffled the Chinese monologists. He says the seeds of the mulberry and the egg were carried across the frontier in the lining of her headdress as she went to join her betrothed husband, the King of Kuo-sa-ta-na. In India many curious beliefs abound in connection with the rearing of the worms, such as this:—No woman is allowed near the plantations as the worms have a strong dislike to the gentle sex. This is entirely opposite to the views held by the Chinese. But in many matters Indians and Chinese agree. For instance, strong language must be avoided, and as to the things silkworms dread most, a few can be quoted:—Wanton conversation, the noise of tapping or beating, the sound of crying, the smell of frying fish or flesh, and the smoke of smouldering paper. A strict injunction is given to the people tending the worms that their hands must always be clean, and no persons wearing mourning clothes must come near them. There was a somewhat amusing restriction for the care of the worm, viz., that they should have a quiet house with a boarded floor, the air should be sweet and dry, and great care should be taken that the fire needed to warm them should be guarded lest someone walking about in the dark of the night should fall therein, as a sudden noise is harmful to the worms.

After a brief discussion votes of thanks were passed to the lecturer and to the chairman.

Procuring Charge Falls.
Mr. Mason, of Messrs D'Almada and Mason, defended a Chinese who was dismissed at the Police Court, this morning, on a charge of procuring a girl.

A KIPLING CRITIC.

As He Is Seen Through Hindu Eyes.

An interesting criticism of Mr. Rudyard Kipling from the pen of a Hindu, Mr. A. R. Sarath-Ray, appears in the March North American Review.

"In describing the native," the writer says, "Kipling evidences all the virgins and prejudices of his countrymen. He considers the Bengalee a coward, because that vegetarian gentleman is peace-loving and anxious to avoid trouble," as Mulvaney puts it. Centuries of Hindu philosophy, of Hindu religion, and Hindu civilisation have cast his mind into the mould of Peace. Also his food and the hot climate are not conducive to give his physical and mental propensities a bent towards aggressiveness and fighting.

"The Bengalee may not possess a spontaneous physical courage, but he commands a mental or moral courage, that can enforce a physical courage, as late developments have proved. This mental courage does not make him less a man or a person unworthy of respect. This Kipling overlooks. Nor is his ridicule original. Englishmen for many years have been making fun of the courage of the Bengalee, and Kipling just swims with the current.

An Inferior Person.

"Then, again, the Indian is always represented as an inferior person to an Englishman, whether that Englishman be civilian of the Indian Civil Service or a ruffian of the class of Tommy Atkins. Nowhere does one find conversations between natives, so there is no data for comparison. Nor, indeed, is there one bit of serious conversation between an Indian and a European that is characteristic of anything other than the peculiarities of the former's mode of expression in a borrowed language. The Lama in Kim can scarcely be regarded as typical of the Indian. He is a lovable scholar of ancient lore, he lives in the past and is full of rustic ignorance, which keeps him in a continual state of wondering at all he sees in the great world outside of his monastery, situated on the spur of the Himalayas, beyond the frontier of British influence.

Not All Savages.

"In Naulaka Kipling analyses the mind of the Indian, but there is nothing very characteristic about it. Sitabhai, the Gipsy Queen, might just as well be European as of any other country. She is an extraordinary type, closely related to the Medians and the Borgias, or any other strong-willed, fearless, unscrupulous, intriguing woman with power, influence, and money to support her diabolical machinations. "The Rajah is perhaps, more Indian; but even there his unenviable qualities are portrayed, and one finds nothing in his character to arouse sympathy, except his rugged soldiery and open wickedness. His ruggedness and strength call forth admiration, as they would in any man, but the question is, is the Maharaja a typical Indian king? Are all the kings of India so ferocious, so unscrupulous, so savage, so despotic, and so temperate? It is hard to believe it when one studies the history of India with an impartial mind, or when one comes in intimate contact with Indian kings. It is unfortunate that Kipling so persistently and monotonously depicts only the evil aspects of Indian character. Had he relieved it with a picture of the brighter and cleaner side, he might have been considered an impartial and thoughtful critic, and perhaps, with greater truth, assume the position of a reliable authority."

REGATTA AT CANTON.

Home Crews win all the Events.

The Canton Rowing Club held their Annual Regatta on Saturday on the northern reach of the river where it flows past Belshera Island. It is at any time a very pretty spot and the whole course is nicely wooded right down to the water's edge, while on Saturday, with all the European population on the river in all kinds of craft, the place had quite a busy look. The races were kept clear of all boats and everything was finely arranged by the local Rowing Club. The races started in a drizzle with a cold north wind blowing right up the course. If the weather had only been on better behaviour it would have been a regatta that would have taken some beating. As it was, there was provided racing the like of which has never been seen at Canton before and it is highly probable that it will never be seen again. The finishes in three of the races were so close that it was not until the flag went up that most of the people knew which boat had won. Hongkong were most unlucky. They put up a grand fight in each race only to find that the Canton crew were just the least bit better.

If it had not been for the Hongkong Crews coming up there would have been no Regatta so that great sympathy is due to them in losing so narrowly.

Race 1 Hong Gigs, 4 Oars Chinese Crews, 1 mile: Deacon & Co., Ltd., E. Wo, Kwocheong, Lai Wo, Sui Kee, Tai Wo.

This race was won, after a good tussle between Tai Wo and Lai Wo, by the former crew.

This was the race of the day and great interest was taken in it. When the boats lined up at the start there was a strong north wind blowing right against the course and it was bitterly cold with a Scotch Mist drizzling down. Both boats got away well and there was nothing in it until they got to the half way mark when Canton seemed to be just the least bit ahead. After this the home four crept ahead and at the next post they were about a length ahead. From this distance Hongkong crept up and the last 200 yards racing was simply a repetition of the race at Hongkong three weeks ago. There was never anything in it and it was a bold man who could tell unless he was at the judges post who had won. The boats went at it stroke and stroke and it was only on the last pull that the Canton boat got ahead enough to give them the verdict. There was great jubilation in the home camp at this win as the Hongkong four came up last year and took away the Canton Challenge Cup with them. It was distinctly hard lines on Hongkong as they rowed a fine race and were much the more stylish crew, but the extra weight in the Canton boat told in the last spurt.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

Master of the Tai Shan Prosecutes
Master of Tai Lee.

This morning at the Marine Court the case was mentioned before Commander Basil Taylor in which Robt. Alex. Birse, master of the s.s. Tai Shan, is prosecuting James Wilcox, of the s.s. Tai Lee, for having on March 29 failed to observe the International Collision Regulations while under way between Cheungshan Island and Patung Island.

Mr. D. V. Stevenson of Messrs. Deacon, Looker, Deacon and Harston appeared for the complainant, the defendant not appearing nor being represented.

The Magistrate said that the defendant was ashore up the West River and the case would be adjourned sine die.

Mr. Stevenson said he was in some difficulty as one of his witnesses was leaving the colony. If the summons could be served he would ask his Worship to take the evidence of that witness before he went away.

His Worship replied that they could not serve the summons outside the jurisdiction. The dock company were working on the ship and they could not say when she would be off. They would let him know when she would be off so that he could have the summons served directly the ship reached Hongkong.

Mr. Stevenson asked whether it would be possible to send for the captain of the s.s. Tai Lee but the magistrate remarking that that would be out of the question adjourned the case sine die.

Hongkong people for patronising their regatta as otherwise it was not possible to work up enough interest in the place. He was very sorry that the Hongkong visitors had drawn a blank but nevertheless he hoped that they would come back again in the same spirit and that they would have better luck. They nearly won in several of the races and they put up a grand fight and helped to provide the best racing that has ever been seen on the Canton River.

During a thunderstorm Mr. Mombler replied, thanking the Canton Rowing Club for the fine show that they had put up, and also thanking them for putting off their Regatta to suit them (Hongkong). They would have liked to have won some of the events but they wished to congratulate Canton and Mr. Imhoof, who is retiring this year after 14 years of continual successes, in rowing here and in Hongkong. He hoped that Mr. Imhoof would see to it that Canton had worthy representatives next year.

A very pleasant day was brought to a close by the Consul-General calling for three cheers for Mrs. Combe and the visitors.

The prizes were presented by Mrs. Combe and followers that Mr. Walcot, in the absence of the Chairman, Mr. Canton, made a speech in which he thanked Mrs. Combe for her presence and the Hongkong crews for coming up and making it possible to have a regatta in Canton. He pointed out that in Canton they were absolutely dependent on the Dairen Returns. The shipping returns for the port of Dairen for February last, give a total of 156 vessels with a gross tonnage of 230,382 in arrivals. Of the above, Japanese vessels totalled 123 of 200,021 tons. Compared with the corresponding period of last year, this shows an increase of three vessels of 33,910 tons.

MONEY AND DEEDS.

Fork Arrested on the Wharf.

Detective Sergeant Wills arrested a Chinese last night who it is alleged is wanted in connection with misappropriation of the sum of $200, and with converting to his own use deeds and documents to the value of $10,000. The story is that the man was employed by a local egg merchant and he was entrusted with the money etc., to convey to a Chinese in Hongkong. It is alleged that he did not deliver his charge and apart from using the money, secured an advance on the deeds and documents. He had been in Annam, it is said, and came here with the intention of going to another part of the country on board the Hoi To. He was about to embark when he was arrested. At the Police Court, this afternoon, the man was remanded until tomorrow.

LOG BOOK.

Launch of an Oil Tanker.
The oil tank steamer "San Melito" was successfully launched by Lady Murray of Eltham at the Jarrow yard of Palmer's Shipbuilding and Iron Company. The "San Melito" is the seventh of the ten large vessels being constructed to the order of the Eagle Oil Transport Company. She is the second of two sister ships for the same owners built by the Palmer Company at Jarrow, the first vessel, "San Hilario," being delivered last year. The vessel has an overall length of nearly 550 feet, and will carry a total of dead weight of over 15,000 tons. She is constructed on the Isherwood system of longitudinal framing, to Lloyd's highest class for the shelter deck type, and under their special survey for the carriage of oil in bulk, and is also in accordance with the latest requirements for Suez Canal, Factory Act, and Board of Trade regulations. The oil is carried in 12 main compartments, subdivided by a central longitudinal oiltight bulkhead, having the usual cofferdams. A central expansion trunk is provided between the main and upper decks, and extends for the full length of the oil compartments. The spaces at the sides of the expansion trunk are utilized for the carriage of coal or oil fuel, and are provided with separate small expansion trunks extending through the shelter 'twon decks.

Chinese Seamen.

The determination on the part of the National Sailors and Firemen's Union to oppose the employment of Chinese on British vessels has reached a very critical stage, and there is now every prospect of strong measures being taken by the union against those owners who make a practice of employing mixed crews. On March 2 the Barry Committee of the union held a mass meeting of sailors, which was attended by some 400 men, which, after some strong speeches, resulted in a march to the docks, where two vessels—the "Earl of Elgin" and the "Lord Derby"—were lying. Both vessels are carrying mixed crews, a big proportion being Chinese. The riggers, who were working on the ships, were soon prevailed upon to cease work, and shortly afterwards the trimmers and tipplers followed suit, with the result that work on both vessels was at a standstill. The attitude of the sailors was so threatening that the police were called in.

Pay-Day on the C.P.R.

Pay-day on the C.P.R. is an eagerly anticipated event; and each month the company pays out over $8,000,000 in cheques, distributed over the system. By actual count the cheques reach a total of 120,000, and this number, with the growth of the system and the consequent need of more men, ever grows. "We do everything in our power to accommodate the employees," says Mr. H. E. Snelling, the treasurer of the C.P.R. "There is a great deal of time and pay associated with the monthly pay-day; and if we had to have it twice a month, as is the case in certain of the States—well, it would mean a lot more trouble, a doubled staff, and considerably more expense. The wages list is constantly increasing on the C.P.R. A decade ago the total number of employees was something like 65,000. To-day it is over 120,000 in all grades of activity. It might be said, that over 500,000 persons are directly interested in, and look forward to, the monthly pay-day, while, if we consider the allied interests, the indirect relations sustained one way or another, the commercial and industrial affiliations of the company outside the regular list of employees, we get over 1,000,000 people more or less directly concerned in the issuance once a month of those seemingly innumerable bits of paper, which are so eagerly transmuted into bread and butter."

Long Trip.

The motor launch "Miri" was navigated from England to Singapore, a distance of about 8,500 miles, under her own power, averaging nine knots per hour. Her dimensions are: 85ft. long by 27ft. 6in. wide, by 5ft. 6in. deep, and she is fitted with Bolinder crude oil motors.

Tea Report.
Messrs. Lloyd, Matheson, and Carrut report under date of March 12 as follows with the following:—

Indian.—The market during the week, although closing without any material change, was barely as active as at the last auctions for teas above $3½ per lb; below this figure, however, the demand was quite up to recent sales, prices being fully firm. Assam and Doorga Automals again met with keen competition, and some of the Southern India teas, particularly those showing improved quality, also sold well.

Ceylon.—Prices continued firm with a good general inquiry for all descriptions of teas showing an improvement in quality were keenly competed for and in some cases realized dearer rates.

China.—Quotations for the week remain unchanged, while buyers with few exceptions are exercising their extreme caution in making their purchases of common and medium qualities of Congous at the present advanced rates now ruling, while fine quality teas are still good value at 8d. upwards.

D.C.L.I. CHAMPIONS.

R.G.A. Defeated after a Hard Game.

There was a very good attendance at the Club ground Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon when the D.C.L.I. secured the honours of the United Services League in defeating the R.G.A. by one goal to nil. Major General Kelly was amongst those present. The teams lined up as follows: R.G.A.—Gunner Moore; Gunner Langford, Bombr. Green; Gunner Buckland, Gunner Berry, Gunner Westbrook; Bombr. Dallman, Bombr. Crane, Bombr. Cartwright, Gunner Swan, Gunner Pinchard.

D.C.L.I.—Pte. Johnson; Pte. Bailey; Pte. Fife; Pte. Holmes; Pte. Newman, Pte. Tregilgas; Corpl. Moseley, Pte. Bennett, Pte. Smith, Bagler Curmore, Pte. Book.

The R.G.A. were the first to make any advance move but their progress was checked by an offside infringement. The Cornishmen soon transferred the play and for several moments kept the R.G.A. defence busy. Green however played with his customary calm and his clearances were the relief of his side. The D.C.L.I. were conceded a corner, but the defence was again too good. The artillerymen then paid a visit to the other end of the field, but though Pinchard once appeared dangerous he could not shake the attention of the Cornish right back and though a corner eventuated nothing further came of it. The D.C.L.I. left wing then engineered the leather down to the opposing goal and Langford was forced to play the ball out for safety. After another fruitless run by the Cornishmen, the R.G.A. pressed and Pinchard had a shot at goal from a difficult angle. The ball was headed back however on to Pinchard's toe, but his kick was bad, the ball spinning out of play. Dallman was penalised for offside and a few moments later the R.G.A. had a goal disallowed. Tregilgas made a meritorious dash for the R.G.A. goal and twice in half a minute the custodian was called upon to handle. He responded cleverly, however, and kept his charge from penetration. Some very exciting play followed round and about the Cornwall's goal in the course of which Johnson was responsible for two brilliant saves. The combination of the D.C.L.I. was degreed ahead of that of the R.G.A. up to this stage. Bailey then presented the R.G.A. with a corner, but Pinchard made nothing of it. Moseley then got possession and being ably assisted by his wing partner got the ball within a few yards of the goal. He sent in a capital shot but the goalkeeper was equal to the occasion. He had no sooner got rid of the ball when he was called upon to save again, doing so in masterly fashion. Matters looked serious for the D.C.L.I. when they were penalised close in for a foul, but fortunately for them the kick was a bad one. The D.C.L.I. secured two successive corners and though Moseley placed the ball in front of goal each time, it was a case of so near and yet so far. Moore on the last occasion fisted out when a goal appeared certain. The score at half time bespoke the even nature of the game. Score R.G.A. nil; D.C.L.I. nil.

The Cornwall's opened the second half with an onrush on to the opposing goal, but they had to suffer the interference of Green. Play was then transferred to the other end of the field, but the only real opening was spoiled by Dallman. Pinchard sent in a shot which was the result of an infirming and a corner resulted. Later Johnson was loudly cheered for a most brilliant save having to throw himself full length across the goal to save. After the Cornishmen were penalised for a foul Pinchard got possession and despite the fact that he was hard pressed he put in a shot from the corner flag that called for all that was in Johnson to clear. On two more occasions the R.G.A. were dangerous, but Johnson was not found wanting. Cutmore then gave Moore an anxious moment, the ball just dropping over. Twice in quick succession Moore was tested and a third time the ball just went wide at lightning speed. Dallman eventually got possession, but before he could make any headway Fife disposed him. Pinchard sent in a rattling shot, but Johnson running out saved in a most praiseworthy manner. Swan was guilty of a most glaring error. He had the ball nicely in front of goal but not being content commenced some fancy work during which he found the ball taken away from him by Baillie. But this was not the end of the mistake. The Cornishmen were not slow to take the ball to the other end and Moseley dashing up at the psychological moment crashed the leather into the net amidst deafening cheers. Once more the D.C.L.I. goal was in danger, but Johnson saved at the expense of a corner. When the ball was played, Johnson again cleared it in splendid fashion. "Shortly afterwards the halt was called with the scores: D.C.L.I. one goal, R.G.A. nil.

At the conclusion the winning team lined up in front of the stand and Major General Kelly presented the trophy. In doing so he congratulated the winners on their excellent football and the losers on the fine fight they had made. The R.G.A. had won the shield and that day the rubber had been completed as they had seen. He was sure they would all join with him in congratulating the winners and also the losers for running up a good second (Cheer). Major General Kelly then presented the D.C.L.I. with the Hutton cup which was shot off for last week and which they had won.

Cheers and a "tiger" were enthusiastically given for Major General Kelly.
